Description

The Mitex General DMR digital handheld two way radio is extremely rugged and durable. Lightweight and easy to use this radio has both analogue and digital channels so you can continue to use it with your existing analogue radios until you're completely ready to switch over to digital. Or you can use them as digital from the start and take advantage of the crystal clear audio quality and reduced interference of digital channels. With 16 pre-programmed channels on digital and 16 on analogue this radio is versatile enough for any application, and robust enough to work just as hard as you. Almost completely dust and water tight this radio is built for endurance and performance. This licensed radio gives you 5W power, far more range than is available with a licensed free radio, and is programmed under our "Easy Licensing" option. The channels are programmed to UK Business Light frequencies, making it ready to use straight from the box. Just fill in the license application that comes in the box, send it off with your payment of £75 and you're all set for 5 years.
